

Abstract

Briefly, an oscillator device with impedance elements to prevent premature improper biasing of transistor nodes and to increase the maximum possible peak-to-peak signal swing.